Members of "The Night Clerk" Troupe To Appear at Press Club Cabaret

GENEVIEVE BURNS.

ELLEN TERRY BOYLE.

Members of the committee on entertainment were able to announce an added feature for the annual cabaret and Christmas party of the South Bend Press club today in the persons of Ellen Terry Boyle and Genevieve Burns. The two young women are featured of "The Night Clerk," the musical comedy now appearing at the Orpheum theater, and were secured for the big newspaper show at the Oliver hotel tomorrow night, through the courtesy of the Orpheum theater management and the theatrical company.

Both of the girls have good voices, and they will be heard to advantage in some of the latest popular pieces. The young women are members of a company, which has broken all records for performances and attendance at the Orpheum. This is the third appearance at the Orpheum. "The Night Clerk" at the theater in two years, and the first time it remained for an entire week.

EFFICIENCY FOR WOMEN.

The word efficiency has been creeping into all the walks of life and with it goes better work and bigger results. It is only when they attempt to apply the efficiency test to women that the world cries, "Halt! Woman's place is in the home. She can excel as a mother or as a housekeeper."

There are some women who never get the chance to be either of these. There are others, who, when they get the chance, make a very poor success of it. There is another class of women who must be wage earners, not because they want to escape housekeeping or the care of children, which they are often accused of, but because hard necessity compels them to help pay for the daily living. Then there is a class of women to whom the Creator has given the power to do brain work, creative work. The genius to do specialized and concentrated work, instead of the distributed energy of the mother and housekeeper, that demands that a woman be the captain of the home, the steward, the pay master, the nurse, the first aid to the cook, keep her temper, and, under all conditions, have all the tact and diplomacy possible to meet every kind of nature and disposition, and to amalgamate it all into a happy home.

There is no need to apply the efficiency test to a mother with young children. Her contract is all made out for her. She has no time for anything but home and children, that time does not cover the whole of a lifetime. There is much time before and after. Then, too, many women never have any married life.

At one of the training schools for girls the head of the department said to me: "Girls so often want to do something they are absolutely unfitted for. Girls with big clumsy fingers and hands, want to be milliners, a vocation which requires delicate touch. Girls capable of being in subordinate positions where everything is planned for them are discontented because they want positions that require execution, ability, planning and thought. They do not stop to think that a master mechanic could never be a bank president, and that a man might be an expert bookkeeper but a failure as a business manager."

There is the same difference in women. Why not put the test on her and find out what line she can excel in and then try to smooth out the path for her. A man has his sanctum where nothing outside of his particular line of work is allowed to intrude, a place where he can retire and think out his brain problems. A place where he can be alone and his thoughts can simmer and brew and where he can be free from interruption. How many women have this?

Who is fanning any spark of genius she may have? Genius must have its favored conditions, and many a woman who has tried to do some work along a line that has demanded her undivided attention and concentration, without interruption or digression, has abandoned all ambition along those lines before the onslaughts of domestic duties, and the question, "what shall we eat, what shall we drink, and where withal shall we be clothed?"

It is one thing to be old fashioned, it is another to be primitive. Why, then, should woman's ways and needs be the only thing to stand still? Why, when any radical changes are suggested, should there be such a hue and cry about woman's sphere being the home. Let us hope domesticity will always be the inherent womanly trait, but let the word efficiency be the help to the woman that it has been to the man.

THE SATISFACTION OF BUYING STANDARD, BRANDED GOODS.

One is never safe in purchasing for the table food products whose reliability is not guaranteed by some firm of recognized standing. One never knows what ingredients are used in private brands or under what conditions these food products have been prepared for the market. Experts employed by the government and private dietetic investigators have called attention to the evils which have been only partly remedied by the passage of the pure food and drug act. Consequently, the housewife's best protection is in the purchase of goods guaranteed by firms whose integrity is unquestioned.

Food products which must be bought fresh from the green grocer can be inspected by the housewife at the time purchase is made. She can tell by examination whether or not articles offered are suitable for the table. With goods in packages, tins and bottles, however, there is no such opportunity to investigate, nor would even the opening of the container reveal adulterants or insanitary methods of manufacture.

Take, for example, the case of cocoa. Not only may it be prepared in a factory where sanitary conditions do not prevail but it may also be grossly adulterated without the housewife being able to detect this fact when making her purchase. The best cocoa on the market is made from the cocoa bean alone. Nothing is added and nothing subtracted except excess cocoa butter. It has been found by investigation that the best cocoa has about 24 percent cocoa butter. A large percentage renders the cocoa indigestible, whereas a smaller amount robs the cocoa of its nourishing qualities.

NEW APPLE SAUCE.

Materials—One-quarter peck apples, 1 cup sugar or sugar to taste, 1-2 teaspoon grated nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Utensils—Bowl, saucepan, small knife, colander or coarse strainer, potato masher, large spoon and teaspoon.

How to make—Wash and quarter apples, put into saucepan with one cup of water and cover until they come to a boil; uncover and as soon as they begin to break mash with a wire potato masher; strain through colander; add salt and sugar. Some apples need less water than others; use your own judgment. Never pare apples for sauce; if the apple is red-skinned, the sauce will be pink; if you use a greenish apple, the sauce will be a pale green. The less the apples are cooked the better they are. One cup will be used for the apple sauce cake. There will be enough for six sauce dishes besides.

APPLE SAUCE CAKE.

Material—One cup apple sauce, one cup sugar; 1-4 cup shortening, one slightly rounded teaspoon baking soda; one teaspoon ground cinnamon; 1-2 teaspoon salt; two cups flour; two tablespoons jelly to put between cake.

Utensils—Mixing bowl; two measuring cups; wooden spoon; teaspoon flour; sifter; two jelly cake tins; paper with which to line tins.

How to make—Cream sugar and shortening together, add the unsweetened apple sauce, to which has been added the baking soda, which has been dissolved in two tablespoons hot water; add cinnamon, salt and flour. Bake on two jelly tins, lined with paper, in hot oven for 25 minutes. Put together with jelly. This makes six good-sized pieces.

ROUND STEAK EN CASSEROLE.

Materials—Pound and a half round steak, two tablespoons beef suet, one cup cut carrot, one cup small onions, one teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon caramel, one tablespoon chopped parsley.

Utensils—Frypan, casserole, measuring cup, paring knife, teaspoon, tablespoon.

How to make—Cut the steak in narrow strips and place in frypan with suet over very hot fire, sear (brown) on both sides. Put the carrots, which were scraped and cut into one-inch rounds, also onion, into casserole; add meat, suet, salt, pepper and two cups hot water; cover and place in oven for one hour. Mix flour with a little cold water and add to casserole, return to oven five minutes. If not brown enough, add caramel; sprinkle with parsley. Serve in casserole. This is enough for six persons.

COMPLAINANT A STRANGER

Doesn't Know Man He is Supposed to Have Attacked.

Declaring that he did not even know the man who charged him with assault and battery, Joseph Switalski, 223 N. Jackson st., pleaded not guilty before Judge Warner in city court Monday morning and his case was set for Tuesday. The charge against Switalski is made by Peter Neme, 1505 Dunham st.

Clarence Warren, charged with assault and battery by his wife, Tillie Warren, also entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried next Saturday. Charles Stepiello, 413 S. Parry st., charged with malicious trespass by Nelson Woodcock, denied the allegation and his trial will come up Wednesday.

Your Family Washing

Did you ever think what it would mean to be rid of the work and worry of the family washing? It's a weekly task that's not pleasant to anticipate, yet there are some who continue to drudge along, beginning the week with the most exhausting work and putting up with no end of inconvenience.

When these people "see the light" they will join the great number of housewives who have "emancipated" themselves from the Monday drudgery. They will call Home 5117 or Bell 117 and tell Slick's to call for the washing. It'll be returned flat pieces ironed, starched pieces ready for dampening, all for
